The evening started on a quirky note when Mr. Jokes-a-Lot ordered the "Lobster Surprise." Little did he know, the chef had taken the term "surprise" too literally. As the dish was brought out, the lobster jumped off the plate, causing chaos on the table, and scuttled across the restaurant floor ?. Customers were bewildered, children giggled, and the waiters frantically tried to catch the runaway crustacean.

Suddenly, in the midst of the merriment, the lights dimmed, and a spotlight shone on Mr. Jokes-a-Lot. He took center stage and began telling jokes that were so funny, even the statues in the restaurant cracked a smile ?. The audience was in stitches, their laughter echoing off the walls.

As the night drew to a close, Mr. Jokes-a-Lot took a final bow and bid the restaurant farewell. The laughter subsided, but the memories of the funny fiasco would forever linger.
