Youth Engagement in Shaping Sustainable Urban Futures Worldwide

In today's rapidly changing world, the role of youth in shaping sustainable urban futures has become increasingly crucial. As the global population continues to grow, more individuals are moving to urban areas, placing immense pressure on cities to create sustainable and livable environments. In order to achieve this, the engagement of young people is essential, as they are the torchbearers of tomorrow and possess the creativity, enthusiasm, and passion needed to drive positive change.
